

I would like to register the strongest possible vote AGAINST the use of cellular phones on airborne aircraft. Even if this practice is deemed "safe" -- which is not clear -- it would represent yet another unavoidable intrusion in our lives. It is simply not appropriate to be forced to listen to cell phone conversations when confined on an aircraft. Moreover, such an intrusion makes it impossible for those of us who must concentrate, or even those who would like to relax, to do so. Thank you for your consideration.
